THE CASE OF THE CONQUEROR.

The status of Tomlinson & Co.'s Sir Dixon—Repeat colt that was wrongly raced last year under the name of The Conqueror and is now illegally entered in many stakes under that name, is sure to soon become a turf problem of great importance and one that will greatly harass and vex the racing officials of the various western clubs. This good colt belongs to good people and it is a matter for sincere regret that through possible carelessness, or more probably through a lack of knowledge of the rules governing the registry and naming of thoroughbreds, he is now under such grave disability that he has absolutely no right to start in a flat race over any western track. He has no right to the name under which he has been raced and, in fact, he has no name, none having ever been claimed and registered for him. The name The Conqueror was duly claimed and registered for Col. W. S. Barnes' two-year-old colt by Jim Gore—Bacchante when he was a weanling, and no other horse has the legal right to start under that name. In order that this case may be clearly presented in sequence a portion of a letter from Col. Wm. S. Barnes, which was published in this paper January 20, is here reproduced. He said:

"The name of The Conqueror I claimed and had registered when my colt was a weanling. When I selected that name and had it duly registered with the Jockey Club I had never heard of Mr. Tomlinson's colt. As soon as I saw that Tomlinson was running a colt under that name I wrote to the Jockey Club and called their attention to the fact, and they replied promptly, saying: 'You are the only one that has registered this name for a colt, and Mr. Tomlinson's colt has never had a name claimed and registered with us, and you alone are entitled to the name.'

"I then wrote to Tomlinson and told him all these facts, and said to him in this letter that I cared nothing whatever for the name and urged him to register a name for his colt and that he would not be eligible to race in the east unless he did so. I told him I would gladly allow him to retain the name—The Conqueror—provided he could so arrange it with the Jockey Club and would pay the cost of changing my colt's name, which would be $100. Mr. Tomlinson replied by saying he had left the matter of registering and naming the colt with a gentleman in New Orleans, and if I remember correctly, he said the man was his partner in the ownership of the colt and that he was of the opinion that the colt had had a name registered and would refer the matter to his partner.

"As I was, and am, clearly entitled to the name I could not be expected to pay for changing my colt's name ($100) and still care nothing for it. They have not accepted my proposition, which was certainly a very liberal one on my part. I tried to right the matter and am sorry that I selected this name. His colt is truly a conqueror and the name should be retained by Tomlinson if he can arrange it and pay for doing so."

Writing under date of February 23, Mr. James E. Wheeler, registrar of the stud book, says:

"Messrs. Tomlinson & Co. have not taken any steps to rectify the matter.

"The status of their horse is exactly as I informed Col. Barnes on January 29th last, and is as follows:

"Tomlinson & Co. cannot start their horse in the east until it is named, a name not having been claimed in conformity with Rule 39 of the Jockey Club Rules of Racing. Furthermore, this colt should not have been allowed to start in the west, from the fact that Rule 23 of the American Racing Rules had not been complied with.

"A numeral 2nd, however, may be added to a name which is in use, and the name 'The Conqueror 2nd' can be registered for their colt by Sir Dixon-Repeat, but it will not be allowed to race in the east, on courses under the auspices of the Jockey Club, until the penalty provided by amendment to Rule 39 of the Jockey Club Rules of Racing is complied with, viz., payment of $50.

"The rules will not permit the transfer of the name as proposed by Colonel Barnes from the fact that 'The Conqueror' is the registered name of his horse and is already in use and the same will not be available for use until after the expiration of five years from the animal's death."

From this it appears that a way is open by which the Sir Dixon-Repeat colt can be raced in the east. But, unfortunately, it does not seem that he can at present be legally raced over the western tracks governed by American Racing Rules, which differ in some important respects from the rules under which racing is conducted over the eastern courses. The closing sentence of paragraph 5 of Rule 23 says: "Neither initials nor numerals will be considered or accepted as a name for horses foaled after December 31, 1896." As the Sir Dixon-Repeat colt was foaled in 1897, it seems obvious that he is barred from running over Turf Congress tracks as "The Conqueror II."

Now since it is plain that this colt has no name it is equally plain that he has no right to be entered or started in a race and any officials of any western club who would permit it would thereby violate the rules under which they conduct racing, for Clause 7 of rule 23 of American Racing Rules says: "No horse foaled in the United States since January 1, 1892, and no foreign-bred horse imported into the United States or Canada since January 1, 1900, shall be allowed to start in any flat race unless it has been named and registered as by this rule provided."

If this colt should be allowed to start in an important race, or any race, and should finish first, it is clear that the owner of the second horse could claim the race and it would have to be awarded to him. It is this phase of the case, if no other, that should stir Tomlinson & Co. into taking steps toward seeking relief from the serious predicament in which their own neglect has placed them. That relief can only be obtained from the American Turf Congress. In the case of such deserving and respected people it seems reasonable to believe that they would enact a special measure to restore such a good horse to the tracks.

In the meantime there is in this case the suggestion that there may be other unregistered horses running in the west. If so the officials of the clubs are derelict in their duty in not enforcing the rules in this important respect.

GOSSIP OF THE TURF.

Entries for the Harlem and Lakeside Jockey Club spring stakes close tomorrow. In order to be eligible, all nominations must be handed in or mailed before midnight of Thursday. This is Secretary Nathanson's busiest day, for with the entire country to cover, his final appeal to owners for entries must be made before this evening.

Seven stakes for Harlem and five for Lakeside make up the lists that close tomorrow and are to be decided at the opening of the coming season, which promises to surpass in quality any of the meetings of recent years. Nominations are coming in great numbers, especially for Harlem, and, according to the secretary, the lists, when published, will show a number of Count Hubert ran a fast first quarter and then tired. Aphrodis ran her race. Modder (b. c. by Candemas—Moderato) a fair one. Madrina (b. f. by Midlothian—Paloma, dam of Miss Rowena and Yellow Tail) was tired out in long breakaways.
